ADM 1-2

Administration New Member Assimilation

1. Introduction

It is important to integrate new members into the functions of the Amateur Radio Emergency Service® (ARES®) as quickly as possible. It has been shown time and again that the quicker and more involved individuals become in an organization, the more likely they are to remain involved. This document defines how new members are to be assimilated into the Heart of TN. ARES® organization.

2. Responsibilities

The Assistant Emergency Coordinators (AECs) for Administration, Recruiting and Retention, Training, and Response Teams are responsible for implementing this procedure.

5. Guideline

New member applications are to be processed by the AEC for Administration and entered into the membership database along with a digital photo of the applicant. The status of the applicant will be "Pending" until completion of either Heart of TN. ARES® Basic Certification or The American Radio Relay League's (ARRL) Emergency Communications Level 1 (EC001) course. In addition, the AEC for Administration is to notify the AEC for Recruiting and Retention and the AEC for Training of the new member's application.

Heart of TN. A. R. E. S.

The AEC for Training will coordinate the applicant's completion of either Heart of TN. ARES® Basic Certification program or completion of the ARRL's EC001. Once completed, the AEC for Training will notify the AEC for Administration of the successful completion and record the member's completion.

The AEC for Administration will issue a Heart of TN. ARES® identification card to the applicant, changing their status to "Active", making them a full member. The AEC for Administration will notify the AEC for Response Teams that the member's status has been upgraded to "Active" and that the applicant is eligible for assignment to a Response Team.

The AEC for Response Teams will assign the applicant to a Response Team and notify the appropriate Response Team Leader (RTL) of the applicant's assignment, providing the RTL with all necessary contact information. The AEC for Response Teams will also notify the applicant of their Response Team assignment.

The RTL will add the new team member to the team's recall list and contact the applicant to advise them of the next Response Team activity, inviting them to the event.
